PREFACE.

Sheffield, early in the 17th century and about fifty years after the register begins, had a population of little more than two thousand people, of whom only two hundred and sixty were householders; it is now a city with over five hundred thousand inhabitants.

The parish church, now The Cathedral Church of Sheffield, was originally dedicated to Saints Peter and Paul; the earliest structure, of which traces still exist, was erected early in the 12th century, by William de Lovetot, lord of Hallamshire, who founded the Priory of Worksop; to which the church at Sheffield was annexed, until the dissolution of the lesser monasteries under the act of 27 Henry VIII.

Towards the end of the 17th century, the church was re-named and apparently re-dedicated to Holy Trinity; but neither the exact date nor the reason for the change has, as yet, been ascertained.

By an Act of Parliament, entitled "Bishoprics of Sheffield, Chelmsford and for the county of Suffolk Act 1913", which received the royal assent on the 15th August of that year, the Diocese of Sheffield was formed; and the parish church became The Cathedral Church of SS. Peter and Paul, Sheffield.

In February 1914, the Right Reverend Leonard Hedley Burrows, D.D. then Bishop Suffragan of Lewes, was appointed the first Diocesan Bishop of the new see; and on the 1st May 1914, he was enthroned in The Cathedral Church, Sheffield, by the present Archbishop of York.

The earliest register books, four in number, are of various sizes; and cover the period from 1560 to the end of September 1703, with the exception of a few months in the year 1607-8, when the baptisms are missing for the month of February; the marriages for the months of January February and March; and the burials for the month of February.

The entries, from the beginning of the register to 1604, are written in a beautiful hand of the 17th century; from which it appears that the register, up to that date, is a copy of some earlier record.

The present volume includes all the baptisms and marriages from 1560 to 1634-5; and Part II, now in the press, will contain the burials for the same period; together with later entries of baptisms marriages and burials.

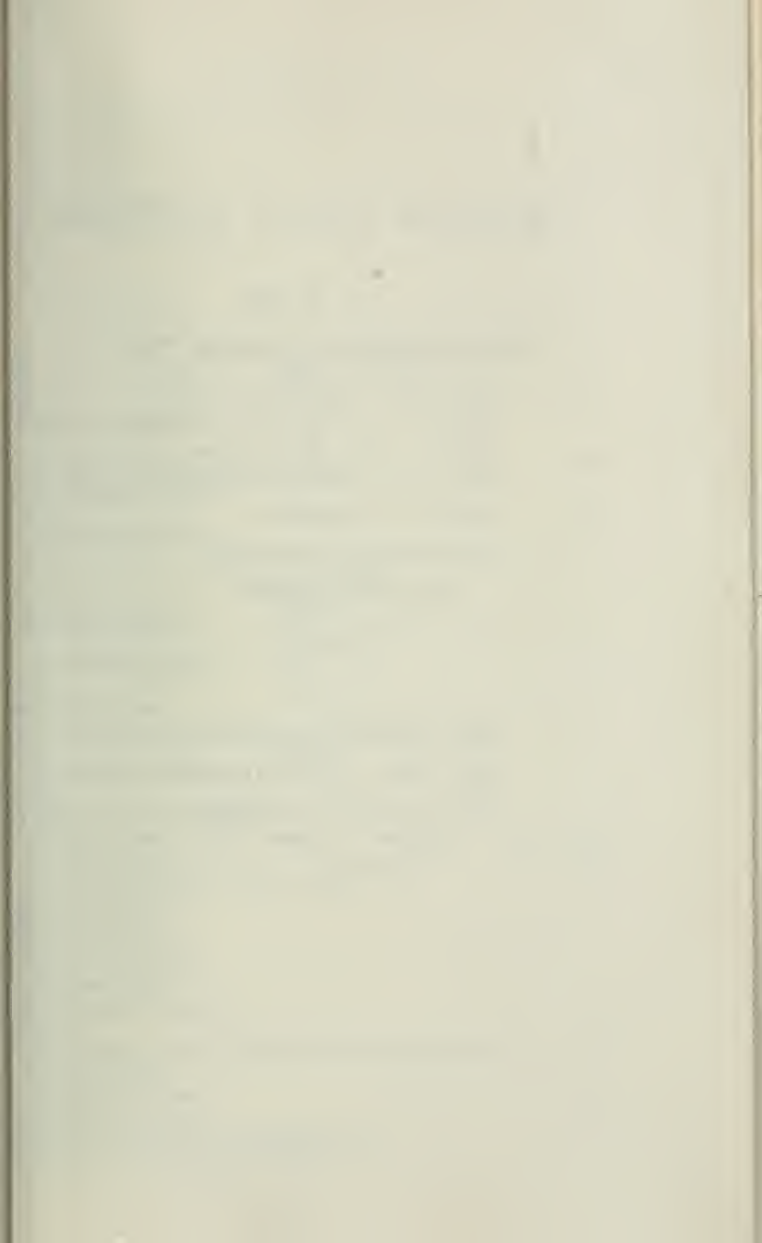

Through the friendly co-operation of the Venerable Archdeacon H. Gresford Jones, vicar of Sheffield; The Hunter Archæological Society of Sheffield and the Yorkshire Parish Register Society; it has been possible to undertake the publication of the first two volumes of the Sheffield Register; and it is hoped that, by a further joint effort, the transcription of the register, from 1634-5 to the end of 1837 (as to part already transcribed), may be published at no distant date.

Thanks are due to Mr. John Charlesworth of Wakefield, a member of the Council of the Yorkshire Parish Register Society, for a full and complete index.
